Dunwoody Country Club is the only place that can accommodate us right now with the social distancing we think makes it safer for us to meet in person. We will require masks - and will have masks and hand sanitizer available. The Country Club will take temperatures at the front door - anyone with a temperature of 100 or more will be asked to leave. DCC staff (with masks and gloves) will provide cafeteria style food service and pre-rolled silverware, water and such will be available at DCC-manned stations in the meeting room. There will be plexi-glass shields between you and food servers.

Past President Rick Woods sent an email last night asking that you let him know whether you'll be attending. You can write to Rick at sdoowrm@gmail.com.

In this newsletter, Louise Barden shares some guidelines from the CDC regarding proper handling and wearing of masks. Please take a minute to read!

Serving During the Pandemic

District 6900 Targets $500,000+ To Feed the Hungry

Editor's Note: You will see this in our District Newsletter later this week, but wanted to share a special district initiative started by the Rotary Club of Atlanta, in case anyone is interested in helping meet this goal.

The novel coronavirus pandemic has left corporate kitchens dormant or grossly underutilized, while growing unemployment is driving the city's food insecurity numbers to unprecedented levels. Feeding America and The Atlanta Community Food Bank estimate that 16% of people in the 29-county service area of the Food Bank will be food insecure this summer. And, with school out for the summer, 26% of children, 1 in 4, could go hungry. To address this staggering divide, The Atlanta Community Food Bank and Second Helpings Atlanta have joined forces to launch the Atlanta Community Kitchen Project. This first-ever public/private partnership in the region connects hunger relief agencies with commercial kitchens with a goal to provide five hundred thousand meals to Atlanta families in need this summer. And this unprecedented initiative is being funded in large part by the city's top corporate leaders who comprise the Atlanta Rotary Club. The Rotary Club of Atlanta initially provided $100,000 as one of the earliest supporters of the Atlanta Community Kitchen Project, enabling the distribution of the first 25,000 meals. Based on the initiative's success, and in keeping with Rotary's mission to bring together business and professional leaders in order to provide humanitarian service, Rotary has further committed an additional $100,000, which is being matched by an anonymous donor coupled with another $100,000 matching raise, for a total of up to $400,000 to support the Atlanta Community Kitchen Project. Clubs and individuals can contribute to this effort on the District 6900 website at Feed the Hungry.
