BIRTHDAYS

- 2/21 Marie Crean

There's no doubt we're making some difference in our community ... from our work at the Community Assistance Center food pantry (February crew pictured here) ... to volunteering at the Dunwoody Nature Center ... to gardening at Bounds Gardens or the Mulkeys' home ... all the way to our commitment to the mosquito abatement project in Puerto Rico that's in the works.

We know we're doing good, but we'd like to be able to do better at measuring our impact. So I'm asking each of you to take stock of the Rotary projects you have been involved in this Rotary year (July 1, 2020 up to now) and estimate the hours you have invested. Take a few minutes to itemize the projects and the hours you have spent - whether it's a Saturday morning cleaning up at Bounds Garden or reading essays for the Laws of Life program ... or something at the District level. And then keep the list going and we'll check back later in the year.

Send me an email now with those details and we'll work on adding up the numbers, just as a way of keeping track of what we're investing in our commitment to Service Above Self.

Making a Difference

Check Out Rotary Works ... a Program to Support Career Transitions

Last month, Rotary Zones 33 and 34 introduced a very special vocational service project, “Rotary Works” - an initiative provided for Rotarians and Rotaractors experiencing career transition. This initiative is comprised of three distinct programs, providing education, networking, and/or financial resources for participants, providing mentorship opportunities for personal and professional development. To learn more, watch the first program, and sign up for future month Zoom sessions, you can visit www.rotary.works (no .org or .com) [read more]
